

It is our pleasure to introduce our speciality Tomato grower, Nutbourne Nursery, which is where we purchase our juicy mixed English tomatoes.

They come in a 5kg box with mixture of 12-14 different varieties; they are truly a lovely blend of tomatoes.

The season runs from March until October where the family are continuously working on their crop. Inside the exotic mix are: red and yellow cherry vine, baby plum vine, san manzano plum vine, tiger vine, beef, loose plum, orange vine, classic vine and classic loose.

Nutbourne Nursery is located just 53 miles from new Covent Garden Market. The nursery which is in Pulborough, West Sussex is run by Gary Griffiths and his family. They have been growing their tomatoes since 1979. Gary grows many varieties of tomatoes which can be ordered in the mix or by individual lines, such as; cherry vine (red and yellow), tiger vine and beef.

Each year Gary trials new varieties of tomatoes, this year for example he has grown a variety of cocktail vine called Amorosa, which has a sweeter and crunchier taste than the normal cocktail vine.

The Griffiths family run a tight operation at Nutbourne. They do this on an approx 1 acre plot which they also live on, maximising the potential of production of their English tomatoes, (and minimising their sick days!).

The English Tomatoes are grown, picked and packed on site daily Nutbourne Nursery are very much a family run business, who offer that personal touch. This allows Cream of the Crop to get a supply of top quality produce from a local grower to your kitchen within 24 hours. So we really can offer 'as fresh as it gets'.
